

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 13, 1834.

FOR CONGRESS—DISTRICT

No. 4—JAMES RUSSELL, of West Cambridge.

"A man is known by the company he keeps."—If the moral of this adage be applicable to parties as well as men—and we see no reason why it should not be—the Swigs of Boston are in a bad way. It is but a few weeks since they were paying homage to Poindexter, a man whose moral character and personal habits are well known to be such as to render him an unfit associate for respectable men. We are now about to introduce to our readers another worthy whom the "pious" Swigs of this refined city have "delighted to honor"—and we think there will be no difficulty in proving him equally worthy, with Poindexter, of their attentions and favors. In the Lexington (Ky.) Observer and Reporter of the 12th inst. is the following paragraph:—

"The Whigs of Boston have recently presented our old fellow townsman, SAMUEL M. BROWN, Esq., of Louisville, a splendid canoe made of a part of the old ship CONSTITUTION, in consideration of distinguished services performed during the last war, and since that time. A more worthy Whig could not have been selected upon whom to bestow an honor. Mr Brown is a member elect of the Legislature, and we have frequently heard his name mentioned in connection with the highest office in the House of Representatives."

We shall examine Mr Brown's claims to the "honor" in question in the same order in which they are enumerated in the Observer and Reporter. The Maysville Monitor sums up the amount of his services during the last war by saying that he "volunteered as a private in Capt. Trotter's company at the commencement of the war. The troop marched and reached the frontier—was run about for a few weeks and ordered to Columbus, Ohio, to prepare for an expedition against the Mississinewa Towns. At this juncture Mr Brown asked and obtained leave to quit the service, having, as he alleged, urgent business to attend to, and never afterwards joined the army in any shape, and although the war continued for years, remained at home. During the short time Mr Brown remained in the army, the troop to which he belonged, and which afterwards so distinguished itself, had no opportunity of meeting an enemy—they had that opportunity when they reached the Mississinewa—but Mr Brown was not there." As there is nothing in his conduct during the war which would entitle him to particular favor, it follows, as a matter of course, that it must be his "distinguished services since that time," which commend him to the "good society" Swigs of this city. And in what, gentle reader, do you suppose those services consist.—Not in challenging an antagonist to mortal combat, and not in fighting when challenged—but in assaulting, in a public tavern, the Hon. T. P. Moore, when the latter gentleman was not only out of health, but entirely unapprised of the intended attack, and so heavily encumbered with overclothes as to be unable to use to advantage the little strength he possessed. Is it not degrading to think that this feat—which might have been as well performed by any blackguard, possessed of no higher sense of honor than to take advantage of such circumstances to revenge himself upon an individual whom he dared not meet upon fair and honorable terms—not only purchased for its perpetrator a seat in the legislature of Kentucky, but a public testimonial of favor from the leaders of that party which arrogates "all the religion" of the community.

To show in a still stronger light the real character of this Brown, we subjoin an extract from a publication which the Hon. T. P. Moore caused to be laid upon the desk of every member of Congress, last winter—no portion of which has ever been denied or disputed by the individual to whom it relates, or any of his friends:—

"This Brown is a gambling bully and vagabond, bloated with dissipation, who spends most of his time in Louisville, though I believe he has no home. So infamous was he in 1829, that his own brother-in-law, Samuel Q. Richardson, Esq., in the letter which Green mentions, in his publication of this day, and a copy of which he sent me, justified Green for not giving up the name of the author on account of his (B's) want of character. Since that time he has sunk, if possible, still lower. Those whom he has swindled, and the relations of his amiable and robbed wife, whose sufferings and tears could not move him, attest the depth of his degradation. What would this man care for any thing said of him six years ago, after having heard worse things of himself from a thousand tongues? What could induce him, as he has since avowed, to go from Louisville to Lexington for the purpose of attacking me on my way to Washington, with the intention of following me here, if he could not otherwise accomplish his object? Why was that particular time selected to avenge an affront near six years old? The generous people of Kentucky will answer these questions."

Later from Europe.—The ship Marathon, Eldridge, arrived at this port yesterday, from Liverpool, 13th ult. The papers brought by her contain no political news of moment.

London, Nov. 11.—Sugar.—This morning there were few buyers on account of the public sales advertised; the demands afterwards improved, as many holders have withdrawn their shares for higher prices, the market is again improved on the currency of Friday, making an advance of fully 1s per cwt since this day week. Coffee.—There was little action in Coffee last week; 1300 bags St Domingo sold at 46s 4d—good ordinary Brazil at 45s—good ordinary Sumatra 32s 6d a 33s 6d—good ordinary Havana 45s 6d to 46s 6d.

Liverpool Cotton Market, Nov. 12.—The sales on Thursday last were 5000 bags, of which 2500 were taken on speculation, Friday, 3000—Saturday, 2500—Monday, 4000 (1000 on speculation)—Tuesday, 2500—and to-day 2500. The demand for Cotton this week has been moderate.

The Clerk of the Directors of the House of Industry requests us to say that he did not take an active part in the election in Ward 12, on Wednesday—that he did nothing to influence the result of the election, except to cast his vote.

It is not true, as stated in a paragraph in yesterday's Post, copied from the Mercantile Journal, that the B. & W. Rail Road Company have offered to bring the U. S. Mail from Westborough to this city, for nothing.

The Democrats in New Orleans have completed their arrangements for a grand celebration in honor of the result of the late election in New York.

The great Rail Road Bill has been lost in the Georgia legislature: it received but thirty votes in the House of Representatives.

The libel suit instituted by Mr Lewis Tappan against the New York Commercial Advertiser, has been withdrawn, the plaintiff paying costs.

POLICE COURT.

Assault on the Watch.—The attention of the Watch was drawn, by a general uproar, to a cellar in Broad street, where a squad of railroad operatives were assembled, to enjoy a sociable knock down and drag out. Three of the most forward of the boxers—James Dorety, James Carey, and Dennis Whaley—were hauled into the street, where Dorety broke loose, and came to the rescue of his comrades, by assaulting their captors with a brick fire of brick-bats: but the "crack, crack, crack" of the rattle brought a reinforcement of Charleys, who succeeded in juggling the whole three. The worthy trio had but little to say for themselves, though Dorety, casting a patronising look at Whaley, said—"This boy had drunk a little more than enough, may be, and as we wanted to fetch him, we used a little argument til him, when the watchmen interfered." The "argument" they employed to convince poor Whaley, was the genuine arguendum ad hominem, laid down in the treatises on logic, and made a visible impression on the outside of his head. He no doubt deserved his fate; for he was a sorry looking son of sin—a "raal ca-nacker," with a face like an owl, and a beard like a scrubbing brush. The night watch of the jail overheard their "familiar dialogues," while in the black-hole, wherein they threatened death and destruction to the whole fraternity of mischief-stopping, or making, watchmen and constables. The court was of opinion, from the increasing frequency of assaults on the watch, that it was advisable to send the three "boys" up to the Municipal Court, for trial, where a severer punishment can be awarded, than it is in the power of the Police Court to inflict.

George Porter and Charles Porter, brothers by birth, and brothers in-deed, having been discovered stealing onions out of a barrel about 9, on Thursday night, were narrowly watched, from pillar to post, till one borrowed a handcart, upon the principle that "silence gives consent," there being no one present to refuse to lend it, and the other marched down to the wharf, and rolled out a half barrel of mackerel, which was very soon placed in the handcart, that proved quite handy about that time, and each of them, with brotherly kindness, relieved each other, in drawing their prize home. When they arrived at the door, Mr Watchman introduced himself to their acquaintance, and, after telling as many lies as there were mackerel in the barrel, George found that he was in danger of being soused in Police pickle in the morning, and offered to give up a boat, which he owned, to settle the affair. "I only picked the mackerel up, and you can make what you like out of it," said George; "Nobody doubts that you 'picked' them up; there was never less dispute about the facts in a case," replied his honor; "and you must pay a fine of four dollars each, and costs, within ten days, or go to the House of Correction three months."

Samuel Wells, charged with stealing $140s' worth of galloon from Jason Hewes, of Lynn, was brought in on an executive warrant, by Constable Pierce who escorted him to this city from New York, where he was arrested by Homans and Hayes, who were promptly paid the reward of $40, offered by the owners of the stolen property. Constable Pierce was also handsomely rewarded for his services. We mention this circumstance, as in general, people who offer rewards, resort to every possible miserable shift to evade their payment, after they recover their lost property. Wells was bound over for trial before the Court of Common Pleas of Middlesex County.

Acquittal of Buzzell.—The jury, before whom John R. Buzzell, indicted for burning the Convent, on Mount Benedict, was tried, returned a verdict of not guilty, about 10 o'clock, yesterday forenoon, after being out twenty-two hours. This verdict was received by loud tokens of approbation, from a large number of the spectators, of whom two, named Flanders and Ford, were brought to the bar for contempt; but, upon making oath of their ignorance of any impropriety in thus expressing their approval of the verdict, they were discharged. Buzzell was accordingly discharged upon that indictment, but there is another pending against him.—The intelligence of Buzzell's acquittal was brought to this city by some fanatic, who came galloping through the streets, waving his hands and shouting—"Acquitted! Acquitted!"

William P. Mason, Sargent Blaisdell, and Marvin Marcy, a boy, are now on trial, before a new jury, of whom John B. Goodwin is foreman.

Otis Pardoned.—The Marshal received from the Pres dent of the United States, yesterday afternoon, the pardon of Amos Otis, and he was discharged from Leverett street Prison last evening.—Briggs' Bulletin.

Miss Wheatley, of the Park Theatre, made a great impression at Albany, where she has been playing with Mr Knowles. The Argus states that Mr K. was so struck with the extraordinary talent displayed in her performance, that he declared he should watch her progress with great anxiety and ardent expectations, and proffered his own valuable instruction and friendship, in the preparation necessary to render her, what he predicted she should become, one of the very first actresses of the age.

The New York Star says Mr Knowles' play of the Beggar of Bethel Green, is in rehearsal at the Park, and no doubt it will sustain the merited reputation of the worthy author. We hear him every where spoken of in terms of great esteem and respect.

A new Drama in two acts, called The Pirates of the Pinda, or the Plunder of the Mexican, has been brought out at the Bowery Theatre, New York.

Finn is playing as a star at Charleston, where he has brought out his new play of Kaspar Hauser, with great success.

The season at the South has been favorable to the sugar-crop: a stalk of the cane, grown on the plantation of Mr White, 20 feet long and 7 inches round, was shown at New Orleans.

The Marathon, from Liverpool, has on board a locomotive engine of great power, for the B. & W. R. Road.

The steamboats on Lake Champlain have gone into winter quarters.

Amount of gold coined at the mint, up to December 6, 1834, $3,248,890—remaining uncoined, $77,310.

CONGRESS.

In the Senate, Tuesday, Dec. 9, Messrs Robbins, Poindexter and Bibb were appointed on the Joint Library Committee.

Mr Webster, in pursuance of notice, and on leave given yesterday, introduced a bill to provide satisfaction for certain American citizens for spoliation on their commerce, prior to September 30, 1800, which was read a first time and referred to a select Committee consisting of Messrs Webster, Prentiss, Preston, Shepley and Grundy.

The Vice President laid before the Senate a letter from the Secretary of the Treasury, with a statement relative to the Bank of the U. States and the deposit banks for the past year; which,

On motion of Mr Grundy, was ordered to be printed, together with the accompanying documents.

A resolution was adopted requiring the Secretary of the Treasury to communicate to the Senate any correspondence with the Bank of the United States on the subject of the branch drafts, and dividends withheld, not heretofore communicated. Also, to inform the Senate whether the Directors on the part of the Government have been refused access to the books and accounts of the institution.

In the House, the Committee on Military Affairs were instructed to inquire and report upon the expediency of abolishing the office of major-General-Commander-in-Chief, and of providing for a fixed allowance, and for a reduction and more equitable distribution of the pay, rations, and emoluments of the General and Staff officers of the army.

A resolution was offered, that the President of the United States be requested to communicate to this House any information he may possess respecting the burning of the building occupied by the Treasury Department in the year 1833. It was ordered to lay on the table one day.

Resolutions referring the subjects embraced in the President's Message to the appropriate committees, were offered—one of them referring so much of the Message as relates to the political relations of the United States with other nations to the committee on Foreign Affairs. The resolutions having been read, Mr Clayton proposed an amendment, in the following terms:—"That so much of the President's Message as relates to the treaty with France concluded at Paris on the 4th day of July, 1831, be referred to the Committee on Foreign Affairs, with instructions to report that it is expedient to await the further action of the French Chambers on the question submitted to them of granting the appropriations necessary to carry the treaty into effect, inasmuch as the delay of consummating its terms seems to have proceeded more from the delicate and important character of the claims resting on voluminous documentary evidence, their long standing, and the peculiar complexity of the principles involved in their adjustment, than from any design, on their part, to impair the friendly relations which have so long and happily subsisted between the French and American governments, or any desire to evade the performance of ample justice when the whole matter shall have been fully and fairly considered."

Upon this motion a debate ensued, in which Messrs. Clayton, Claiborne, Archer and Johnson participated—after which Mr Clayton withdrew his motion.

We perceive with pleasure that the report that Judge Duval had withdrawn his resignation is contradicted. He is as deaf as an adder, and is superannuated besides. His place could easily be much more efficiently filled, and filled with a man of such views on constitutional law as that, if the question of the Bank of the U. States should ever come before the Supreme Court again, (which heaven avert!) would not decide that "necessary and proper" meant "convenient and agreeable," or any thing else Congress pleased. We trust we may live to see the day when the Supreme Court will undergo a thorough reformation in its fundamental constitution. It is now the most aristocratic feature in our Government, beyond all sort of question. But in the meanwhile, in order that the probability of evil from it may be diminished as much as possible under its present organization, we hope to see the places of the present incumbents supplied, as they become vacant, with men whose legal views are founded on the strong basis of democratic principles. The resignation of Judge Duval will make room for one step in a reformation of this sort. We could hope to see Mr Taney, the victim of the aristocratic Senate, appointed to the vacancy.—There would be no fear of his nomination being rejected by the next Senate, and we question if the present one ("under existing circumstances") would dare to gratify their malignity to such an extent.—N. Y. Eve. Post.

Occurrences at Lumberland, Sullivan County.—Gordon Pierce, of Lumberland has been missing since the middle of November, supposed to have been murdered—strong circumstantial evidence of such a probability having been developed. In the same town, John William cut his throat, and died in a few minutes. He had been separated from his wife, and that morning had been to see her, to urge her to come home—she refused, when he levelled a rifle at her and fired; the ball passed through a tin pal, with which she attempted to defend herself, entering her body beneath the left shoulder, and came out below the shoulder blade.—She was still alive, with every probability of recovering.—N. Y. Star.

Shocking.—The Traveller informs us that a husband in Prince street, returned home on Tuesday evening, and found his wife cheerful and happy, with her babe of eight months old in her arms. He went into the cellar, where he was absent a few minutes, and on coming up found that his wife had dropped on the hearth in a fit, and the child fallen into the fire, was suffocated, burnt, and dead. The wife was partially restored, and hopes are entertained of her recovery, though she is still deranged.—Trans.

A delegation of Indians, from the Creek nation, under the charge of B. Dubois, Esq. arrived in this city on yesterday morning, in the steam boat Barry. They are on their way, we understand, to the Territories of Red River and Arkansas, on an exploring expedition. Their appearance is every way genteel and respectable. But for their colour and peculiar conformation of countenance, they would hardly be suspected as belonging to the Savage Race.—Mobile Merc. Adv. Nov. 27.

A Duel.—The Pennsylvania of Wednesday says: We learn that a duel took place yesterday on the Delaware line, between two young men, students of the Pennsylvania University, one a resident of the city, and the other from the interior. The belligerents exchanged shots, with no other result than a slight injury to the trigger finger of the gentlemen from the country—and so the matter ended.

Michigan.—The population of the Peninsula of Michigan, according to the Census just taken, is 85,856. In June 1830 it was about 28,000; showing more than a three-fold increase in four years. In the course of the present session, the Peninsula will doubtless be admitted into the Union, as an independent State. Arkansas and Florida will soon follow. The country West of Lake Michigan will be erected into a Territory.

Arrival of the ship United States.—The U. S. frigate United States, Captain Ballard, arrived last night from the Mediterranean, having sailed from Mahon on the 26th of October, and passed the rock of Gibraltar on the 28th. Left at Mahon the Delaware 74, Captain Nicholson, and U. S. sloop Shark, all well. The John Adams sailed for Marseilles on the 22d of October. The cholera had much subsided at Mahon when the United States left.—Jour. Com. of Thursday.

The Mayor of the city of New Orleans has issued his proclamation, cautioning the citizens against rioting on the arrival of the Rev. JOEL PARKER, against whom an excitement has been raised in that city, on account of some alleged declarations of that gentleman at the eastward.

A rover from Buncombe.—A man from Buncombe, N. C. or that quarter, recently sold a fikin of butter to a gentleman in this place, the emptying of which exhibited a curiosity, which the curious may see by calling at our office. The staves at the mouth of the fikin are about half an inch thick, and are so constructed as to increase in thickness to the bottom, where they attain the thickness of about an inch and a quarter. The bottom, or heading, is made of thick oak, and ascends on the inner side of the fikin about four inches and a half, presenting a ponderous frustum of a cone. One would suppose that there was gain enough to satisfy avarice itself; but (to use a vulgarism) when the Buncombe people "go a catting, they go a catting"—accordingly, our butter-vender did not stop here, but filled up the space between the heading and sides of the fikin with seven stones, of about two pounds weight each, upon an average. If the seller would compare the pains he was at in making this nondescript fikin, he would probably find, that, after all, his gains but little more than paid him for his trouble.—Augusta (Ga.) paper.

Buying a Hat.—Misther, have you ever a palm leaf hat? Yes, Sir. "I wad be after purchasing one, and what will you ax?" Nine shillings—"Nine shillings! but that bates the devil intirely; I could buy the same for four and sixpence a while since?" O well, wait a while till summer is over, and you may have this for that price.—"True for ye, and what'll cover the head of me the while? O, by the powers, I'll fix it so that nather of us will be chated—I'll take the hat now and pay when the price is down."

Precoxious Wits.—I asked two little village boys, one seven, the other eight years old, what they meant to be when they were men. Says one, "I shall be the doctor of the village." And you, what shall you be? said I to the other. "Oh! if brother's a doctor, I'll be cure. He shall kill the people, and I'll bury them—so we shall have the whole village between us."—H. L. Bulwer's France.

Demarara.—The Guiana Chronicle, received at New York, gives an account of the conviction and sentence of 36 negroes, selected as ringleaders, from thousands of their fellow laborers, who had lately obtained their freedom, in an insurrection which seems to have been entirely suppressed. Of these 36, one only was capitally convicted—one was transported for life, and three for fourteen years, and the rest were punished by flogging.—N. Bedford Gaz.

A young man, in appearance a gentleman, but in spirit a dastard, was a night or two ago taken from the Chesnut theatre, Philadelphia, and carried to prison, for felling to the floor, by the blow of a cane, a young female with whom he had been quarrelling.

The Montreal Daily Advertiser has been discontinued. It was the champion of popular rights against the royal party, who combined against it, and thus gave it its death blow.

Suicide.—We learn by a gentleman from Needham, that Mr David Kingsbury, of that town, put an end to his existence last evening, by cutting his throat. Ibid.

Three beautiful full blooded racers have been imported into Charleston, S. C., from Liverpool, by Col. Richardson, the well known sportsman of that state.

The amount of personal and real estate in Wayne county, including the city of Detroit, Michigan, is $18,538,000.

Concert.—The same combination of musical talent which enraptured a large audience last Saturday evening, will give a second Concert at the Temple Hall this evening—when an equally large and fashionable company may be expected.

The attention of persons wishing to purchase Books may be profitably directed to the Catalogue of the extensive stock of Lilly, Wait & Co. to be sold at auction—the sale commences on Tuesday next, at 9 o'clock, A. M., at Cunningham's Auction Room.

CHARITABLE IRISH SOCIETY.—NOTICE.—The regular quarterly meeting of the Charitable Irish Society will be held at Mr Thomas Murphy's, Federal street, on MONDAY Evening next, the 17th inst. at 7 o'clock, P. M. Punctual attendance is requested. JOHN MACKAY, Sec'y.
